

Using English in business informatics

Lernergebnisse

Upon successful completion of this module, students will be able to apply business language /English for IT skills and intercultural competences. They have acquired study and work related skills as well as listening and speaking skills to successfully participate in specialist lectures and discussions in English.

Upon completion of the learning process, the successful student will be able to develop his/her skills and abilities in reading and processing relevant English-language specialist texts, and be able to apply individual occupationally-relevant forms of written language training

Inhalte

- Work in "company groups
- Forms of interactive oral and written language activities for presentation
- Description, discussion and assessment of procedures and processes in the economy and in the field of IT, including intercultural knowledge

Examination of adapted, as well as listening and reading, texts in the original

Literatur

Simply Business English;

Books on English for IT, current newspapers/magazines such as Economist, Guardian Weekly, Business Spotlight, IT/computer periodicals as well as internet sources

Lehrmethode

Switching between different forms of work, whereby reading, writing and internet research on certain topics are usually completed in self-study, use of Moodle.

Lehrsprache

Englisch

Studien-/prüfungsleistung

Solving workshop problems in the semester 40%

Written examination 60% (or oral examination if core module)

Credits

5 (150 hrs. = 60 hrs. attendance and 90 hrs. self-study)

Besonderes

Work in language lab

Alle öffnen Alle schließen